Lord and Lady Byron.

From the Pittsburg Commercial Soon after the publication of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' had made Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe the literary sensation of the day, that lady visited England, and was made much of by the aristocracy and literary classes. Lady Byton be-came one of her friends, and after Mrs. Stowe's return to the United States, an intimate correspondence was maintained between the two ladies. Subsequently, in 1856, Mrs. Stowe revisited England and was made the confident by Lady Byron of all the circumstances attending her courtship and marriage with Lord Byron—their married life and separation. At the time of this communication Lady Byron was in ill health and had been warned by her physicians that she had very little time to live. The motive in selecting Mrs. Stowe as the depository of the secret was the desire of Lady Byron to recount the whole history to a person of another country, and entirely out of the sphere of personal and local feelings which might be supposed to influence those in the country and in the station in life where the events really happened.

Mrs. Stowe faithfully kept the secret. Lady Byron died, and since her death publications have been made, particu-larly the recent book by Countess Guiccioli (Byron's Italian mistress), in which the whole blame of Byron's reckless and wicked life is laid to his wife's charge. It was to her narrow selfish ness and icy coldness, the mishaps of the great poet were due, and while the popular mind has lavished its tenderest sympathy on Byren, it has only had caustic criticism for his wife. Mrs. Stowe, after Lady Byron's death, expected that the truth would be told in England, but as it has not, and as fresh provocation has been given by the healt of Byron's former mistress, and book of Byron's former mistress, its extensive circulation in the United States, she deems it her duty to make States, she deems it her duly to make public the disclosures made to her by Lady Byron, whom Mrs. Stowe not only believes to have been a lady of extraordinary talent and genius, but one of the most sincerely devoted Christian and charitable woman in England—one in whom long suffering which had daysload traits of anyslic helps. had developed traits of angelic holis

Lady Byron, according to Mrs. Stowe—and this part of the story we shall pass over briefly—impersonated donsoisence to Lord Byron. Soon after marriage she became acquainted with the terrible secret that afterwards shaped both their lives. Byron had become the father of a child by an incestuous liason with his sister. It was his consciousness that his wife had discovered the crime that drove him so near to madness, and inspired in his mind a hatrod of her. The sister was an inmatted the forests of the Allaghenies.

About eighty years ago Dr Ale rander of Springfield, Pa., and Dr. Saterlee of Smith the discloss the secret of its composition. They used this Medicine from that time forward, ir all their practice with every mark of success In 1846 Rev. Mr. Gates, (then paster of the Tabernale Churchin Bostoor, Mass. one of the discovered the crime that drove him so near to madness, and inspired in his mind a hatrod of her. Lady Byron, according to Mrs. Stowe, did not leave her husband, but was driven from home that he might give himself up to the guilty infatuation that was consuming him. When she went to his room to bid him a last farewell, she found Byron and the partner of his sins sitting togother. She raid: 'Byron, I come to say good bye,' offering at the same time her hand. He put his hands behind him and retreated to the mantle piece and looking around at the two women that stood there, with a sarcastic smile, said: 'When shall we three meet again?' Lady Byron answered, 'In Heaven, I trus',' and these were her last words to him on earth. Lady Byron answered, 'In Heaven, I trus',' and these were her last words to him on earth. To get the death of Lord Byron's decease. at the depth of Lord Byron's depravity and deceit, after reading this it is only necessary to read the 'Fare Thee Well' he subsequently addressed to Lady B yron through the printer-

"Fare thee well, and if forever, still forever fare thee well, Even though unforgiving, never 'Gainst thee shall my heart rebel."

sense of right and wrong, to bring her into the ranks of those convenient women who regard the marriage tie as only a friendly license on both sides. All his powerful intellect was brought to bear to produce the result. He advocated the good humored marriage of the continent, with its mutual infidelities, and gave her to understand that only in this way could they have a peaceful and friendly life. She answered him, simply,

I am too truly your friend to do this.'

I am too truly your friend to do this.'

Mrs. Stowe also narrates the brughty of Byron towards his wife doring the sensitive period that preceded the birth of their first and only child. Her invariable excuse for these paroxisms of unmanly brutarity was that he was insane. When her child was only five weeks old he expelled her from his house; she was informed by him in a note that he could not and would not longer have her about the bouse.

her about the house.

Lord Byron went to the continent, and in the tragedy of 'Manfred,' which he conceived and partly wrote out in Switzerland, he reached the story of his own life Man-fred is a gloomy misanthrope, dwelling with fred is a gloomy misanthrope, dwelling with impatient remorse on the memory of an in-cestuous passion, which has been the des-truction of his siter for this life and the life to come. In the drama of 'Cain,' the same subject is dwelf-upon. That Byron knew his own heart and judged himself severely, Mrs Stowe declares is apparent from his writings. Lady Byron made, but one con-dition with him, in preserving the secret of writings. Lady hyron made dut one did dition with him, in preserving the secret of his fault. She had him in her power and she exacted that the unhappy partner of her sins should not follow him out of Eng-land, and that the remove intrigue should her sins should not lollow him out of England, and that the ruinous intrigue should be given up. Her inflexibility on this point kept up his enmity, which constantly expressed itself in some publication or other, which drew her and her private relations with him before the public.

When Byron broke away from his unworthy life on the continent and went to Greece, Lady Byron was rejoiced in the hops of his better nature triumphing. Mrs. Stowe says her love of him was intereand unchangeable. To an intimate friend who said to her, 'How could you love him?' she answered briefly, 'My dear, there was an angel in him.' When his body servant, Fletcher, returned again to England, Lady Byron sent for him, and walked the room in convalsive struggles to repress her tears and sobs, while she over and over again strove to clicit something from him which would enlighten her upon what his last message had been. Byron, dying, itt will be recollected, called Fletcher to him and said, 'Go to my sister—tell her—goto Lady Byron—you will see her and say.—" He talked incoherently for twenty minutes, muttering his wife, daughter and sister's name; he then, said to Fletcher, 'Now I have told you all.' Fletcher replied he had not understood a word. 'It's too'iste,' exclaimed Byron, 'all is now over." He died muttering 'my sister—my child.'

Lady Byron's subsequent life, Mrs. Stowe says, was a record of noule and skillfully adis now over." He died muttering 'my sister —my child.'

Lady Byron's subsequent life, Mrs. Stowe says, was a record of noole and skillfully administered obsrities. There was no form of human suffering that did not find with her refuge and help. She gave not only sympathetically but impulsively. Her daughter nerited from her father brilliant talouts and morbid sensibility, and her girlhood was a source of more axisety than comfort; she married a man of fashion—ran a brilliant career, and died of a lingering and painful disease; but Mrs. Stowe says, it was on the bosom of her mother that she leaned as she went down into the dark valley. There was an unfortunate child of sin, born with the curse upon her, over whose wayward nature Lady Byron watched with a mother's tenderness; and the person,'—Mrs. Stowe does not say sixter—"whose relations with Byron had been so dissatrous, who in the latter years of her life, felt Lady Byron's loving and ennoblingly influence, and in her latt sickness and dying hours looked to her for consolution and help.'

Your Committee did not subject to groof the Kalabes' Dowder exhibited at the Fair, but went to the different magazines, and themselves selected samples selected from Jackages' destined for trade.

The various samples thus obtained, embracing Sporting, Cannon, Musket and Hasting Dwider, were subjected to divers proofs, the chief of which, and that upon which we most reliad, was with the 'Eprouvette' mortar charged with 1 ounce of powder and a twenty-four pound ball.

After many days consumed in carefel experiments—ime which we freely bestowed, because of the great therest feit in the question both by the competing parties and the public—and after careful comparison of the results obtained, we found that all the powder submitied to test was of excellent quality. We also found that the superiority, on the whole, rested with the California

" As you passed through the Straits of Juan de Fuca your vessel was covered by English guus, planted by force on the American Island of San Juan No ship can reach the wide waters of Puget Sound without passing under English guns. We look upon this state of affairs as all wrong. The line of 54:40 that the old pioneers of Oregon crossed the continent to defend, will just connect with the line of Alaska that you purchased from Russia. The English, purchased from Russia. The English, by invading the Island of San Juan, have broken the treaty by which we lost all the territory north of 49, and the parties are now in statu quo. You have seen what a fine country it is; how rich its cedars and coal; how favored with deep harbors and placid inland channels. If the Government can be influenced to issue an order to that effect, the Fenians of the Pacific, and a few thousand willing Americans and Germans will take away all that country from the British. We will lower their flags in three months. We will give our notes at ninety days, for Paoific Railroad must pass under the refined cannon of a British fort. What We have said is blunt, but it is to the point and true. We are done.

Altogether, apart from the looseness with which the writer of the above deals with facts which have long since become matter of history, the whole scope of his utterances savor intensely of impertinence and ignorance. But when flags in three months. We will give our with feelings of respect; but right-thinkllel of latitude will experience no little with such brigands as the editor of the Herald proclaims himself to be.

The Byronic Skeleton.

The world has long accepted the theory that every family has its keleton concealed away in some quiet "nake" It has long been known that Lord Byron's family formed no exception to the rule in this respect, but the nature of the Byronic skeleton was exception. ally well concealed, and a curious and scandal-loving world sought revenge in painting it in the most hideous colors Stowe, has unearthed the skeleton, and is calculated to make strong, even to do honor to himself and Lady Young.

rough men shudder and turn away; and yet it is unblushingly trotted out and publicly aired by a delicate and refined (?) American lady! It is known that an intimacy sprang up between Lady Byron and Mrs. Stowe, and it is claimed by the latter that Lady Byron, some four years before her death, but usual docket, there not being a single civil when she was in immediate apprehension of dying, communicated the hideous secret. Briefly, the story is this: Lord Byron lived in incestuous intercourse with his sister, or rather half-sister, Augusta Maria Leigh, from a period antecedent to his marriage up till after his separation from his wife; that a child was the result of this incestuous liason, that Lady Byron became aware of the connection immediately after her marriage, and that from a sense of duty to her husband and for the sake of 'the angel that was in him," she tacitly sanctioned it by permitting the partner of his crime to remain under her roof while she herself continued to hold the position of a wife! The fruit of this infamous connection lived four years and was kindly cared for by Lady Byron, in whose arms the mother died! It was Byron's consciousness that his wife had discovered this crime which drove him so near to madness, and inspired him with the intense hatred of her which he manifested afterwards. Now, all this is very horrible and very improbable. The world will shrink back from it with horror and, for the most part, we venture to think, with incredulity. And we daresay most people will wish that Mrs. Stowe had devoted her undoubted talents to something more befitting her position and her sex, and more likely to be useful to her numerous readers. As might be expected the story is making a profound sensation, and will doubtless make a great run upon the Atlantic Monthly, and if it is notoriety that Mrs. Stowe is in quest of she is likely to have that to her heart's content.

Canada.

At a banquet given to Sir Francis Huicks, at Toronto, on the 12th August the Hon. J. H. Cameron made some remarks which have given rise to quite a commotion throughout the country "He had been sorry to hear that the representative of royalty in this country had been indiscreet enough to say that if we wanted to go England would not try to keep us; but if they wish to become independent let them make a treaty with the United States, aye, and with France, to guarantee us our independence for five and twenty years, and then we could maintain it in spite of the world. (Loud applause and hisses) He did not believe that England was prepared to let us go; and will give our notes at ninery days, for an aufit, and be back with the spoils of Victoria to pay them before they are due. It will not any longer be said then that the rich ship of India seeking Paget Sound with a cargo for the North Pagiff Railroad must mass under the from." To the outsider there does not appear to be anything in these words to justify the fuss they have created; but it should be remembered that the Canadian mind is precisely in that tems per most favorable to excitement on the score of independence.

Port Townsend Letter.

PORT TOWNSEND, Sept. 6th, 1869. EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST .- To-day being the first day of the term of the U. S. District Court our town has a lively appearance, as all those having business with Court are in town. This term will show rather an unsuit for trial. Our people have either become too poor to enter into litigation or have become satisfied that law is not the sure way to obtain justice. On the criminal docket we have one murder case and several assault and battery cases, with a few cases o selling liquor to Indians.

The United States has two cases of libel against a lot of old metal and one circular saw for fraudulent entery at the Custom House.

The U. S. District Attorney received by telegraph, from the Attorney General, in-structions to try the murderer of Hibbard at San Juan by the Civil Court. On Friday last the District Attorney, with the U.S. Deputy Marshal, went to the American Camp at San Juan for the prisoner. The commanding officer, not having received his instructions to turn the prisoner over to the civil authorities, objected to act till receipt of uch orders.

On Saturday, 4th inst., W. E. Barnard, Esq., late efficient Deputy Collector of this District, sailed with his family for Buenaventua, Lower California: Mr. Barnard having become tired of confinement to the desk, with the usual speculative instinct of the Yankee thought he must go trading; as his first venture he loaded the brig Admiral with lumber. Success attend his speculation. He is succeeded in his office by Col. Leary H. Briggs, a gentleman who served with credit in the late war, having retired from the same with wounds received in the cause of the Union. With his war record he is also a thorough business man, having had a desk in the Commissioner of Customs Department at Washington for the past three years, which makes bim an acquisition to our Revenue District.

The Pound By-Law.

EDITCH BRITISH COLONIST. - Much ha been written and spoken in opposition to the Impounding law, but I have failed to dis Impounding law, but I have tailed to discover the slightest reason for its non-enforcement. Are some of our Councillors trying to obtain cheap popularity under the shadow of a mythical own-r of a mythical cow? If otherwise let them "trot out" their 'poor widow" and make, as lawyers say, a "good case;" my life upon it they will find too much christian obarity extant in Victoria to much christian charity extant in Victoria to allow any poor widow to suffer from the law in question. Now as to J, B—, Pater Familieus, Pealgarlie, &c., &c. I trust they are not influenced by motives of self interest. Yet I would ask where the necessity of a "nom de plume" in discussing matters of this kind? Is their cause so weak that they are a shamed of it? I write, Mr. Editor, having suffered considerably from the depredations of cows, one siderably from the depredations of cows, one in particular; the systematic attack of that cow every season on my little garden would be amusing but for the expense and annoyances. Nothing comes amiss to it, but hollibocks and sweet peas are its "particular varieties." Then the ingenuity of the beast is something marvelous; to watch it place its horn under a rope and raise that rope over a gatepost was a sight I tell you! Then I had a lock: the animal came at night as I had a lock; the animal came at night as n-ual; finding no rope to open the gate with it ruminated for a few minut s and theo lett, as I thought, in a state of disgust. But reflection came; in about an hour it returned and attacked the gate rearwards. My leuce is a fair picket, but it shoud no chance; victory lay with the cow, and I paid Fellows & Roscoe for the lock,

Yours, injured, A. Griffin

N. B. I ascertained the owner of that cow was not a widow, but it was very found of my garden. I could'nt force it away (a goak as poor Artemus used to say).

J. P. DAVIES & CO ...... Wharf street ... 11 o'clk a fine assortment of Dry Goods and Clothing

CITY COUNCIL.-This body met on Wednes day evening. A number of unimportant communications having been disposed of, tenders were received from the following parties for graveling Pandora street ; Arthur Strong, $850; Geo. Stelly, $700; Joseph W. Carry $1,050; Michael Wells, from Douglas street to the forks, $290. Moved that the Street Committee wait upon seven-tenths of the property holders on Pandora street, to see it they will agree to pay for the graveling un-der the 36th Section of the Municipal Act. Carried. Geo. Stelly was awarded the contract .... The cost of the flagstaff and flag for the city was stated to be $144..... The Clerk was instructed to write to the Commissioner of Lands and Works, asking him to renai the sidewalk in front of the C buildings, James' Bay .... The S. mittee reported that the centractor was prepared to proceed with the work on the drain on Yates street, as soon as the lumber ar-

NEW AND GOOD ARRANGEMENT .- We have growled because our passengers and mails have been lugged around the Sound in the Gussie Telfair before being brought here. Relief, we are glad to learn from the agent is at hand. At Astoria the Custom House will place an Inspector on board, and the steamer will come direct to our outer harbor and land passengers and mail matter before proceeding up the Sound. The Inspector's duty will be to see that no goods liable to duty on the American side are received on board the steamer. After making the round of the Sound the Telfair will return to Victoria to land freight and load up for Portland. Why cannot freight for Victoria consignees be landed at the same time with the passengers and mails? On the last trip of the Telfair much of the fruit and vegetables brought were spoiled in consequence of the long time they were aboard

DELUGE BENEFIT .- The benefit of the Deluge Engine Company, at the Circus, last evening proved entirely successful. A large audience attended and the performance of the Lee Boys, Miss Lee, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Frank Lee and others occasioned much applause. After the performance came the race for the cups. Many "fast" men and boys entered. Each competitor had to run ten times round the ring. Ted Norris won the first prize in 1 minute and 9 seconds; A. Laing and H. Simpson came in together in 1 minute and 10 seconds. They ran again 5 times around when Laing won the second prize in 32 seconds. Chief Justice Needham and Mayor Trimble acted as judges, and J. T. Howard as time-keeper.

FROM NEW WESTMINSTER .- The steamer Enterprise, Capt Swanson, arrived from New Westminster at 5 o'clock last evening bringing Barnard's Cariboo express with $46,000 in treasure for the Banks; also about 30 passengers, amongst whom we ob served the Rev Mr Derrick, of Cariboo, the hon Mr Holbrook, and J S Clute, Esq. of New Westminster; Messrs H Nelson, of Burrard Inlet, and Findlay, Stewart and others of this city. She also brought down 180 barrels cranberries and 170 barrels sal-

COMMENDABLE .- We learn that the people on William Creek subscribed about $600 for the benefit of the widow of Franklin Roberts, the mate of the steamer Victoria, who was drowned a few days ago. This amount, added to the collections at Quesnelmouth, makes the sum of $1050. The people of Cariboo, ever charitable, have in this instance acted in the most commendable spirit. "Verily they shall have their

NEW WESTMINSTER - His Excellency the Governor was received by Mayor Armstrong amid the firing of cannon and the waving of flags, and conducted to Government House At night his Excellency was serenaded by the New Westminster Choral Society ..... Addresses from the City Council and the Fire Department were presented yesterday; and it was expected that his Fxcellency would go to the Inlet to-day. The Hyacks will give a picnic in a few days.

CARIBOO .- The Sentinel of the 25th and 28th August came to hand last evening. The hydraulic claims enjoyed a few days washing during a heavy fall of rain. The Barker, Foster-Campbell, Cariboo and Caledonia have all paid well. The Calaveras on Lowhee Creek, and the Felix and Mc-Dowell claims, on Conklin Gulch. rewarded their owners richly. New quartz claims have been located on Mosquito Creek. It is reported that the quartz will yield $150

THE Board of Education of Victoria advertise for a female teacher, salary $75 per month. See advertisement. The Board have also voted Messie. Jessop and Burr, of Central School, $250 on account of salary due. TELEGRAPHIO .- A number of private telegrams were ferried across the "break" yes- together with other Merchandise. terday and transmitted to this city! We expeet a news-dispatch to-night.

THE SAN JUAN ISLAND MURDER.-The trial of the man Watts, who is charged with the murder of Hibbard, at San Juan Island. will take place before the Civil Court at Port Townsend immediately. The steamer Wilson G. Hunt sailed yesterday morning to convey the prisoner to Port Townsend where he will be handed over to the civil authorities. Subpænas have been served on the witnesses, who are all Englishmen. If they appear in answer to the subpœnas it will be at their own option. They cannot be compelled to give evidence.

THE SKELETON IN THE WOODS. -It is said that a young man belonging to this city started for Cowichan three weeks ago, taking the Goldstream trail. He took with him a gun, intending to enjoy a bit of shooting en route. So far as his friends have heard be never reached Cowichan, nor has he returned to the city. Perhaps the skeleton found near the Goldstream road is his. We learn that the Police will visit the spot and exhume the bones, and that an investigation will be held.

YALE.-The drowning of Mr Ormandy at Yale threw the whole town into mourn-The unfortunate young man's body ing. was interred on Monday, Rev Mr Derrick officiating. Mr Ormandy was about 32 years of age and a native of Lancashire, England.

TRADE SALE .- J. P. Davies & Co will hold an extensive sale of clothing, shirts fancy goods, dry and millinery goods, boots and shoes, hats, &c., commencing at 11 o'clock to-day. The terms to the trade will

THE Agricultural and Horticultural Society's Exhibition will be held at the cattle sale yard, Fort street. Such, we believe, is the decision of the Committee, the use of the place having been tendered free of charge by Mr. Davies

DIRECT STEAMER - While at Port land. Governor Musgrave received from Mr. Hollady the promise that he would send a direct steamer at least every three weeks to Victoria.

THE CABLE .- The steamer Emma, Capt. McKinnon, starts to-morrow to lay the short bit of cable between San Juan and Lopez Islands. When that is accomplished communication will be re-established with "all the world and the rest of mankind."

Inspection .- The Mayor and Council will pay a visit of inspection to the Police Barracks to-day. They will find everything, as the Eastern dame would say, in "apple-pic ARRIVAL -The ship Old Dominion arrived from San Francisco on Tuesday night. She will load at Muir's, Sooke, with lumber for a foreign port.
